

TRANSITION TO PRIMARY CARE NURSING PROGRAM (TPN)

Challenge, Innovation, Variety

Workforce shortages in the general practitioner workforce, rising patient expectations and an increase in the numbers of elderly and chronic disease patients combined put increasing pressures on the delivery of effective primary care.

The Transition to Primary Care Nursing Program is designed to reduce pressure from GPs by introducing a new generation of Registered Nurses directly into the general practice environment.

What benefits the Program offers to GPs?

- Freeing GP time by assisting with:
  - ✓ Health assessments
  - ✓ Wound care
  - ✓ Immunisation
  - ✓ Clinical data management
- Improving patient health outcomes by contributing to:
  - ✓ health screening
  - ✓ patient education
  - ✓ health promotion
- Practice income generation
